Tomorrow my family and I are returning from vacation, pray for safety on the way (it can be very difficult with four children). Also, on Friday we have a baptism in our church. Two teenagers want to make a covenant with God (Zahar and Dima). Pray for the beginning of their spiritual life. (Aleksandr L. from Nizhniy Novgorod, Russia)

We held a retreat for church members for encouragement, and motivation. Currently, we are preparing for another camp for children and teenagers. Although we have become fewer due to circumstances, everyone is ready to serve as much as the Lord allows. We are grateful for the IDES grant. Because of these funds we have the opportunity to preach not only with words. (Aleksandr G. from Lutsk, Ukraine)

Well Jiri starts treatment Tuesday, 7 hours of Chemo then radiation. Then it's radiation everyday except Sat. and Sun. for three weeks then it's Chemo again and 3 more weeks of radiation a final Chemo then 1 week of radiation. We just had a fire inspection, courtesy of the St. Charles Fire Department. He found no deficiencies and he was very complimentary of how well things are kept. He especially was appreciative of how we've kept the furnace rooms clear.

Wanda P. has been in and out of the hospital over the past few weeks. Her blood pressure and kidneys have been giving her issues. The doctors ran tests and say she has not had a stroke or heart attack. She's improving, but please keep her in your prayers.

Shawn says; I made it through!! The surgery was a success and the Port is in. Everything went very smoothly and the only thing that hurt was the numbing shots. Now for the hard part...I can't lift anything heavy for TWO weeks, including Sofia! My sweet girl is not going to be happy that her Nana can't hold her. It's going to be a rough two weeks 😞 Thank you so much for all your prayers, I truly appreciate them ❤️

I met with John Spatafora this week at the St. Charles County jail. The legal process has concluded and he is currently waiting for transfer to the Missouri Department of Corrections.
